

EXPLANATORY.

DEAR REPUBLICAN.—Since my arrival at home, from whence I did not flee to avoid the Yellow Fever, nor stay away avoiding the discharge of public duty through fear of evil to myself, I have learned that my absence has been construed to be a most manifest and gross dereliction of duty as a county officer, entailing among other serious consequences much pecuniary loss and damage to the County, already staggering under two heavy burdens. If I am really blame worthy in the matter of the failure to hold a term of Court in October under the administration of the newly appointed Judge, I must needs now suffer, or ought to suffer all the evil consequences resulting from my neglect, even to the judgement of fines and penalties; but I trust you will grant me the space necessary to vindicate myself if I am able to do so, from the charge which seems to be brought against my official character.

On the 13th of September, being then in Vermont I wrote to my Deputy here that "if any one should be appointed to the office of Judge in time to secure the Jury say before 2nd or 3d of October, to issue the writ for the Jury, conferring with the Solicitor in reference to it." On the 23d Sept I addressed the Solicitor (having heard meanwhile that Judge Farmer had been appointed, but had not qualified) saying, "if he does qualify please tell McGregor, to issue the venire and I will be home." Judge Farmer came down to Walterboro from the Capital where he had qualified at about the 10th of October, and on arriving at home found a letter from the Solicitor, stating that "there was much sickness in Beaufort, that no jury had been summoned, and little if any preparation made for a term of Court, there being but six prisoners in the jail." Singularly enough, and most unaccountably, the letter sent by me to my deputy never has come to hand, and the one that should have reached Major Wiggin by the 27th Sept. was only placed in his hands on Oct 11th.

Moreover Judge Farmer would not have remained here—as he himself publicly stated—had a jury been in attendance any longer than to have dismissed them to their homes. As it was, the Judge did not even remove his wearing apparel, during the night of his stay, and left before "day-break" of the succeeding morning.

But the chief allegation against the derelict Clerk is the loss,—the expense—entailed upon our poor County. By his forgetfulness of duty, or incompetency. Let us make a trial balance. First the county loses the cost of keeping six prisoners—say till Feb'y term, or one hundred days at $40 for each, $240. Had venires been issued, and jurors and witnesses been in attendance for two days only, in the event of the Judge declining to hold Court—as he declared he should have done—the County bills would have been at least $900. Had he on the other hand gone on with the Term, and convicted six men, at a cost of $300 to $500 dollars more, the whole of them might very likely have been sentenced to the County Jail where they now lie, and would the expense of their maintenance have been lessened "by their trial?"

I do not pretend to be faultless either as a private citizen or as a public officer, but I do assume that since I have been in my present position—and for a long course of public service antecedent to 1868, in which I have occupied here, in Beaufort—I have endeavored to fulfill the duty pertaining to each station, as best I might. If, while I was acting for and among the masses of my colored friends at Port Royal in military times, there had been cause for my being sent out of the Department even—as some were—the Commanding officer would doubtless have used his power, and disgrace his undutiful subordinate; and if now there is just cause for the censure of the people to be visited upon my head, I am willing to bear it. I came back from my northern visit vastly improved in general health, much better fitted for any future labor, and ready to do whatever I may for the good of our County, and my only wish in regard to those who seem disposed to arraign my official conduct or misconduct is, that each one of them might have the privilege of spending two or three happy months in the night of the natural beauty, the culture and enterprise of the north as I have done, which I am sure would heal most of their physical if not their moral and mental distresses.

Very Respectfully,
H. G. JUDD
Clerk of Court.

We have received and forwarded to G. M. PULLMAN, Chicago Aid Society the sum of $50.00, donated by an esteemed gentleman of our town for the benefit of the sufferers at the fire.

Mr. NICHOLS has volunteered to survey a road leading in a direct line from the Court House to the Depot, or rather where that structure is to be located if ever built. We should be glad to have the Commissioners take the matter in hand, and have it built at once. Chief Engineer GAGE has offered the same gratuitous services, and we see no obstacles in the way provided a little effort is made upon the part of the public.

Dr. H. M. FULLER, who has been ill for a long time died at his residence Sunday morning, and was buried Monday.

Col. R. SMALLS purchased the old poor farm at the sale, Monday, for $160.00, it bringing one dollar per acre.

The excursion over the Rail Road Wednesday, was a very pleasant affair. Quite a number of ladies and gentlemen were present. The Genl. Supt., Chief Engineer, and all of the road officers were in the party and made every thing as agreeable as possible for the invited guests. Good humor, good luncheon and its concomitants prevailed. The train returned to town about seven o'clock.

The following letters were received by Supt. MILLETT in answer to invitations to be present at the opening of the road.

Charleston, Tuesday, P. M. November, 7, 1871.

My Dear sir: President Isaacs, Mr. Young, and myself has just given up—with great reluctance and regret—our last hopes to join you to-morrow.

The opening of your Road to its junction with the Savannah and Charleston R. R. from Beaufort to Yanasse—connecting the old time—honored town of Beaufort with Charleston and Savannah by Rail is, to my mind an important and very auspicious event.

It is the first stage of a Rail Road connection which when completed will open to all these towns, new, shorter, and better communications with the commerce and population of the great South west and finally join through them the extreme shores of the Pacific to the waters of the Atlantic.

It will open for the first time to the commerce of the world the beautiful waters and almost unrivalled safe anchorage of the Port Royal and Broad River harbors.

Mr. Isaacs, has been too unwell to-day to venture on so much fatigue to-morrow, and Mr. Young, and myself have engagements preventing us which we have in vain struggled to escape.

They have requested me to express their regrets with my own and add every possible good wish for the early completion and full success of your enterprise.

I am very truly yours,
JAS. B. CAMPBELL.

BEECH ISLAND, S. C. Nov. 7th, 1871.

To Stephen C. Millett, Esq., Superintendent P. R. R.

My Dear Sir:—Your telegram inviting me to participate in an excursion trip to-morrow at the opening of trial of first forty miles of our Dear Old Port Royal Rail Road, was not received by me until late last night, and I regret to say that urgent professional and other business of much importance will prevent me from being present on this pleasant occasion, but I beg leave to send you and all of the friends of the road my warmest congratulations on this, to the road and the country's important occasion.

Three times three cheers and a bumper for old Port Royal! Yours truly,
H. R. COOK.

We have received at the hands of a fair one, a "pome" which she wishes put in print, and says "as it is my first attempt to write for the paper I hope to see it inserted."

We confess there is considerable originality about the pome, but we decline to insert it, for various reasons; we will sample a few verses thusly:

Heaven's blue ethereal vault
Is gaily gemmed with stars,
And Luna elms the eastern slope
Accompanied by Mars.

What a sublime creation! and how kind in that planet to keep beside Luna in her wanderings. She fails to state how far Mars goes, but we presume as far as the zenith, and then stops, as he is not referred to again personally. In the second verse she puts her feminine spurs into Pegasus and mounts higher:

"Ye brilliant messengers of night,
Around my pathway shine,
And let those orbs so sally bright,
My lover's form entwine."

"Sadly bright" is a poser—but in her anxiety to have her lover entwined with the stary beams, she plunges into a sea of solcism. Unable to do justice to the subject, she strolls to the fields unattended, save by her shadow, and here the "divine afflatus" gets the best of her, and the heroic, trochaic, and hexameter are strangely mixed up—she goes on wildly about "those towering pines where moonbeams dance," and then as suddenly drops to terra firma whose "grass sparkles like diamonds," and regretfully she strolls back to the house where "Silence reposes and all is profound" in what, she fails to say. We have no doubt she felt better after being delivered of such a piece of mental sublimity, but she had another dig at the moon for "strolling through the blinds"—she should have the old fellow indicted for burglary. We think this is as much as human nature can stand for one week—and as there is sixteen verses left, we will retain them for future use, we think on the average, she will make a more decided mark by teaching than "writing for the papers."

Dr. H. M. FULLER, who has been ill for a long time died at his residence Sunday morning, and was buried Monday.

THE COLLECTION AND DISTRIBUTION OF THE SCHOOL TAX.

Attorney General Chamberlain makes the following reply to certain questions submitted to him by the Superintendent of education:

Office of the Attorney General,
Columbia, S. C., October 24, 1871.
Hon. J. K. Jilison, State Superintendent of Education.

DEAR SIR—Yours of the 12th instant is before me. You inquire, first, "Whose duty is it to assess school taxes?"

I answer that, in my opinion, it is the duty of the county auditor.

You ask, second, "Whose duty it is to collect school district taxes?"

I answer that, in my opinion, it is the duty of the county treasurer.

You ask third, "If any school district, at its annual meeting, fails to raise the tax required by law, but at a special meeting legally called and legally assembled does raise such tax, is such school district, by such action, entitled to receive its portion of the appropriation made by the State for free common school purposes?"

I answer that, in my opinion, a school district, which complied with the law in holding a special meeting, and laying the necessary tax for school purposes, would be entitled to the same rights and privileges as if this action had been taken at an annual meeting, inasmuch as the law expressly provides for special as well as regular or annual meetings.

You ask fourth, "Is that portion of the law requiring the withholding from school districts failing to raise the school district tax required by law their portion of the State appropriations for school purposes, constitutional?"

I have carefully considered this question, and it is my opinion, as at present advised, that this provision of the statute of 1871 is in contravention of the provisions section 5, article X, of the Constitution of the State, which provides: First, that an annual tax shall be collected upon all property throughout the State for the support of public schools; and second, that the school tax shall be distributed among the several school districts of the State in proportion to the respective number of pupils attending the public schools. I cannot reach the conclusion that the Legislature are authorized, by way of penalty or punishment for the non-performance of certain duties enjoined by statute, to deprive any school district of that portion of the school fund collected by the State, to which it would be entitled under the provisions of the constitution to which I have referred.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
D. H. CHAMBERLAIN,
Attorney-General.

PERSONAL.—We are happy to note the return of Mr. H. G. JUDD and family, and Mr. D. C. WILSON, from the north, where they have been luxuriating for the past three months. They are looking remarkably well and rosy.

RESIGNATION OF CARDOZO.

COLUMBIA, November 2.
F. L. Cardozo has accepted a professorship in the Howard University, Washington, D. C., and has forwarded his resignation as Secretary of State, to take effect on the 1st instant, to Governor Scott.

The Governor, Treasurer Parker and Attorney-General Chamberlain are still in New York.

The following Proclamation has been made by President Grant:

By the President of the United States of America
A PROCLAMATION.

The process of the seasons has again enabled the husbandman to garner the fruits of successful toil. Industry has been generally well rewarded; we are at peace with all nations, and tranquility, with few exceptions, prevails at home. Within the past year we have in the main been free from ills which elsewhere have afflicted our kind. If some of us have had calamities, these should be an occasion for sympathy with the sufferers, of resignation on their part to the will of the Most High, and of rejoicing to the many who have been more favored. I recommend that on Thursday, the 30th day of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship, and there make the usual annual acknowledgements to Almighty God for the blessings He has conferred upon them, for their merciful exemption from evils, and invoke His protection and kindness for their less fortunate brethren whom, in His wisdom, He has deemed it best to chastise. In faith thereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this twenty-eighth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-sixth.

U. S. GRANT.

By the President:
HAMILTON FISKE, Secretary of State.

MINUTES OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

At a meeting of the Board of Commissioners held November 7th at their office, all the members were present, John Hunn, Esq., in the chair. In the absence of the Clerk, H. G. Judd, was appointed clerk pro tem.

The deeds of conveyance of the Court House property at Gillisonville, sold to the School Commissioners, and the Poor House lands near Sheep Bottom Church, sold to Col. R. Small, were duly executed, and turned over to the Register for record. The clerk is instructed to notify the Sinking fund Commissioners of the State that the property above referred to has been sold.

The following accounts are audited and certificates of audit and allowance are issued, to wit:
